

Dr. Durkin is a physician with board certification in sports medicine, emergency medicine and musculoskeletal ultrasound. He has decades of experience include working in orthopedics, emergency departments, NCAA division 1 programs and mountain rescue. Based in Missoula, Montana he evaluates and treats all types of injuries and health issues in adult and youth athletes.

He can work with Mountain Edge Athletes in several ways:

If you live near western Montana, come see him in Missoula. His clinic has extensive resources including on site MRI, XRay and Ultrasound among others to get athletes the answers they need.

If you aren't in the region, Dr Durkin has can offer education on typical treatments and recovery timelines for your condition, as well as help you find appropriate expertise in your community.

If you can't get the care you need locally, travelling to Missoula for a consultation is an option. His clinic team can arrange to get your prior scans and records and arrange any needed scans or tests and consultation on the same day for traveling athletes.
